Marlin Green built his practice on understanding his clients' goals, and developing strategies to ensure that goals are achieved. All while ensuring his clients are thoroughly advised so they can move forward as partners in the litigation process. Mr. Green has a diverse, defense oriented practice, which includes Commercial Litigation, Healthcare Liability, Products Liability, Personal Injury, Construction, Premises Liability, Insurance, Employment, and Maritime Law. Mr. Green has taken multiple cases to jury trial. Most recently Mr. Green secured a defense verdict in the United States Virgin Islands in a case involving alleged significant cervical injuries suffered by a 62 year-old female passenger aboard a local ferry boat. Plaintiff's settlement demand was $900,000.00 at mediation, and Plaintiff never moved from that demand. After four days of trial, the jury deliberated less than two hours before finding the Plaintiff did not suffer a cervical injury based on a history of cervical injuries uncovered by Mr. Green despite Plaintiff's effort to conceal same.
